Introducing the A3 Thinking Course

Gemba Academy is excited to announce the latest additions to its portfolio of lean and six sigma online training videos.

The first modules of the new A3 Thinking Course have just been added. This course explores how A3 thinking can positively impact any organization in any industry. Real-world case studies are presented, as well as testimonials from lean leaders that have benefited from A3s.

As with all new modules and resources, these A3 videos are available at no additional cost to existing subscribers to the School of Lean. Additional modules will be added over the next few weeks. The first Overview module is also available at no cost as part of the Free Preview group of sample videos.

“The fact the courses are delivered into small, bite-size modules makes learning easier and allows the students to go back to a particular module for refresher training. This reinforces particular learning points for the student and makes learning much more effective. This results in a more engaged and active participant.”

- Jeff Miller, Global Best Practices Group Chair, Toyota
