Pro CNC is latest addition to Gemba Live! series

We are pleased to announce Pro CNC as the latest company to be profiled as part of the Gemba Live! series. The Gemba Live! series invites subscribers to benefit from real-world, on-site coverage of lean journeys in a variety of companies.

Throughout this new Gemba Live! series of videos, Pro CNC's leaders share their focus on building and maintaining a lean culture throughout the organization. A variety of topics are addressed, including the company's lean journey, the importance of kaizen team participation, their use of mobile workstations and stand-up desks, and more. As with all new Gemba Academy modules and resources, the Pro CNC videos are delivered online, on-demand, and are automatically accessible to current School of Lean subscribers at no additional cost.

Webinar with Gregory Jacobson, MD and Mark Graban: Leadership Behaviors that Create a Culture of Continuous Improvement

Mark your calendar on August 14th at 1 p.m. Central (U.S.) for the latest webinar in Gemba Academy's Lean Thinker Webinar Series.

Many organizations, across various industries, talk about the desire for a "culture of continuous improvement." But, why is there often a gap between the goal and reality? Employees and managers have ideas for improvement, so leaders need to help foster an environment that allows people to speak freely about problems, waste, and opportunities for improvement, while giving them the time and coaching required to make improvement happen. In this webinar, Gregory Jacobson, MD and Mark Graban will share practical actions and behaviors that leaders at all levels need to practice and model for their organizations.
